SPORTS BROADCASTER ANN LIGUORI WINS AWARD

(Orlando, Florida – January 22, 2014) – Ann Liguori, host of the weekly 'Sports Innerview with Ann Liguori' radio show, heard Saturday mornings on WPPB - 88.3 FM, broadcast throughout the East End of Long Island, The Hamptons and Coastal Connecticut and globally on www.peconicpublicbroadcasting.org, won 'First Place' in the Radio Broadcast category in the International Network of Golf (ING) media awards competition.

The ING Media Awards are presented annually during the PGA Merchandise Show in Orlando, Florida.

Ann's show that received top honors is the wrap-up show she hosted on the 2013 U.S. Women's Open which was held at Sebonack Golf Club in Southampton, N.Y. The show featured Ann's commentary on the Major Championship and her interviews with Jason McCarty, Director of Golf, Sebonack Golf Club; Glen D. Nager, President of the United States Golf Association, and Michael Pascucci, Owner, Sebonack Golf Club.

Each week on 'Sports Innerview,' Ann talks about a variety of sports issues and topics and interviews authors, athletes, coaches, celebrities and experts on all sorts of topics pertaining to sports, fitness and wellness.

Ann is also the golf and tennis correspondent for CBS Sports Radio Network and WFAN-AM, New York and writes columns for www.cbsny.com.

Ann's book, 'A Passion for Golf, Celebrity Musings About the Game,' is out in second edition.
